

Program Author

Deborah Simmons

Professor, College of Education and Human Development, Texas A&M University

Dr. Deborah Simmons, the senior author of the Scott Foresman EarlyReading Intervention program, is a researcher in the areas of literacy acquisition and development and intervention for children at risk of reading difficulty. Dr. Simmons is also contributing author to Reading Streets and Sidewalks. She attributes her passion and interest in getting children off to successful starts to her work in public schools as a speech language specialist.

She has served on the faculties of Bowling Green State University, Vanderbilt University, the University of Oregon, and Texas A&M University. Over the years, she has published numerous books, book chapters, and research articles, which have appeared in the Elementary School Journal, Reading and Writing Quarterly, the Journal of Learning Disabilities, Learning Disability Quarterly, and the Journal of Educational Research. She was the recipient of the Jeanette Fleischner Award for outstanding contribution to the field of Learning Disabilities and the Palmer O. Johnson award for Palmer O. Johnson Memorial award for the best paper in an American Educational Research Association publication. She serves on editorial boards for several professional journals, including Journal of Special Education, Learning Disabilities Quarterly, Exceptional Children, and Reading and Writing Quarterly.
